

COMMUNICATION SKILLS

- Simple and Non confusing Language
 - Use of Effective Words
 - Absence of Unnecessary Detail
 - Tone
 - Pause
 - Stress
- Personal Appearance
 - Posture
 - Gesture
 - Facial Expressions
 - Eye Contact

Language as Tool of Communication

Language is the most remarkable tool that man has invented. It enables him to express his ideas and emotions emphatically.

T. Balasubramanian, "Language has a very important social purpose, because it is mainly used for linguistic communication".

Man needs language since he has fine ideas to express.

It is language which distinguishes man from the animal world. Thus, man has a genuine need of linguistic communication . It is an important aid for socialization for it fosters brotherhood round the globe.

Language as Tool of Communication

A language can be used in two ways for the purposes of communication. It can be spoken or written. We can communicate either using the spoken medium or the written medium.

Purpose/Functions of Communication

While defining communication Keith Davis compared it to a bridge of meaning which helps a person to cross a river of misunderstanding. In fact, this definition highlights the purpose of communication in one's personal and professional life.

Objectives of Communication

Exchange of information : The most important purpose of communication is to exchange information from one person to another. In business world, communication also occupies a prominent place since the employees receive different messages from the employer or the juniors from their seniors so that they can perform their job better.

Objectives of Communication

Persuasion : One important purpose of communication is persuasion. Communication helps in persuading or convincing someone for a favorite response. Written as well as oral communication is used to influence others.

Objectives of Communication

Counselling : Seniors counsel the subordinate staff from time to time whenever they face some difficulty at their work place.

Objectives of Communication

Co-ordination : Communication is indeed an effective tool in co-ordinating the working of the employees of different departments or positions. Mutual understanding, joint consultation, seeking suggestions etc. are all possible through formal or informal communication. Besides, communication helps in releasing suffocating emotions when one is able to know other's pent-up emotions. Finally, it leads to sharing ideas freely and in building up a tension free atmosphere.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

1.COMPLETENESS

Sometimes we may start talking in English even with a person who may not be well-versed with the language. This scenario is quite common in day-to-day life. Also, as a conversation flows, we tend to jump from one topic to another, leaving each message incomplete.

When you are communicating with someone, your message should be complete and supported with facts and explanations.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

2.CONCRETENESS

Precise and concrete messages mean more effective interaction with your audience. Avoid ambiguity in your messages to help your audience understand your point easily.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

3.COURTEOUS

While you are crafting your message, make sure you consider the feelings and points of view of the receiver. After all, the success of your speech will be judged on how much your listener has understood.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

4.CONCISE

Do you often get lost in the flow of conversation and stretch it longer than necessary?

Keep the message, impactful, short, and simple for the receiver to understand it clearly. It is important that the message be concise yet complete.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

5. CONSIDERATION

Have you ever attended an event or a business meeting where you feel bored or left out? The strength of a powerful speaker or communicator is that she relates to his audience and makes them feel involved.

Professional knowledge, the level of education, and interests play an important role in helping you relate to your audience and convey the proper message.

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

6.CORRECTNESS

You should always run a fact check on your presentation. If the points you present are game-changing but are based on incorrect facts, they won't have the required impact.

For instance, fake messages going viral on social media platforms have, at times, led to panic in society.

No matter what subject, language, or medium you choose, it's essential that the message you convey is correct. Along with the correct facts, you must also ensure correct spelling and grammar

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION

7.CLARITY

Even if you follow all the C's of communication mentioned above, your message will not make a strong impact if it's unclear.

Make sure you keep your message short and clear so that it has a lasting impact on the listeners.

Barriers of Communication

1. Absence of common frame of reference
2. Badly coded messages
3. Disturbances in the communication channel
4. Poor retention
5. Inattention by receiver
6. Unclear assumptions
7. Lack of confidence between the sender and the receiver
8. Immature evaluation of messages
9. Different perceptions of reality
10. Semantic difficulties
11. Lack of clarity in objectives
12. Misinterpretation of messages
13. Attitudinal clashes
14. Psycho-physical factors
15. Human barriers

Forms of Communication

All types of communication can be classified into four groups:

- Written Communication- Every document that is transmitted in the written form falls in the area of written communication. For example letters, circulars, reports, mails, etc. Written communication is acceptable as a legal document and it is also a permanent record of the organization.
- Oral Communication- Oral communication includes face to face conversation, telephonic conversation, group discussions, interviews, conferences, seminars, speeches etc. Oral communication is extremely useful while communicating with groups at meetings but oral messages do not have any legal validity unless they are taped and made a part of permanent record.
- Visual Communication- Visual communication includes gestures and facial expressions, tables and charts- graphs, diagrams, posters, slides etc. Successful communications make a very effective use of facial expressions.
- Audio-Visual Communication- Audio-Visual Communication encompasses television, cinema and documentary films that combine the visual impact with narration. Audio-Visual Communication is most suitable for mass publicity and mass education.

What Is Interpersonal Communication?

Interpersonal communication is the process of exchange of information, ideas and feelings between two or more people through verbal or non-verbal methods.

It often includes face-to-face exchange of information, in a form of voice, facial expressions, body language and gestures. The level of one's interpersonal communication skills is measured through the effectiveness of transferring messages to others.

Commonly used interpersonal communication within an organization include daily internal employee communication, client meetings, employee performance reviews and project discussions. In addition, online conversations today make a large portion of employees' interpersonal communication in the workplace.

The Importance of Interpersonal Communication in the Workplace

Problem solving - Interpersonal communication skills are necessary because they allow people to discuss problems and weigh the pros and cons of alternatives before coming up with the final solution.

Alignment with business goals - Poor communication between employers and employees can harm the business in many ways. When managers and leaders are unable to clearly communicate tasks, workers can quickly become frustrated and disconnected with the business goals.

The Importance of Interpersonal Communication in the Workplace

Trust - According to the American Psychological Association, a quarter of employees in the US do not trust their employers, and only about 50% of them believe that their bosses are open with them.

Change management Good interpersonal communication is very important during change management efforts within organizations.

Company culture - Interpersonal relationships, especially when executed well, are important for an organizational culture to thrive.

Employee recognition Good interpersonal communication drives more employee recognition. When employees have good interpersonal relationships with each other and their managers, they are more likely to recognize each others' good work and give constructive feedback.

The Importance of Interpersonal Communication in the Workplace

Personal relationships - Interpersonal skills are extremely important for creating and maintaining meaningful personal relationships in the workplace.

Effective management and leadership - The ability to foster interpersonal relationships, establish trust and communicate clearly are all crucial skills for an effective leader.

Employee success - Good interpersonal communication skills are also necessary for managers to help their employees do their jobs successfully. Leaders need to be able to pass on the right skills to the employees that will enable them to perform their tasks and achieve business goals.

The Importance of Interpersonal Communication in the Workplace

Career development - As many employers are looking for workers with good communication skills, continuous improvements of interpersonal communication skills can bring career progressions for many employees.

Conflict management - Conflict is normal in the workplace, and we can't always expect from our employees to resolve conflicts in a calm and timely manner. When conflicts like this arise, interpersonal communication becomes crucial for resolving them.

Distinction between General & Technical Communication

General Communication	Technical Communication
It consists of general messages	It consists of technical messages
This way of communication is informal in style and approach	This way of communication is mostly formal in style and approach
There is no set of pattern in it	It follows a set pattern
This type of communication is not for a specific audience	This type of communication is always for a specific audience
There is no use of technical terms or graphics	It is frequently involves jargons, graphics etc.,
It is mostly oral	It is both oral and written

